

Drawing Conclusions

Using your notes, individually write a brief and concise abstract (less than one page, double-spaced) discussing the concept of Conservation of Energy. You should strive to make as general statements as you can, though referencing the examples is ok. The point of the abstract is to give a reader a quick but thorough description of what you are writing about.